"The Georgian Spirit"

A NOTHER ACADEMIC YEAR has opened with increased registration. This is a familiar story at Sir George, but this year has been unprecedented in the demands for courses and for admission. One morning saw a line-up extending through the building from Drummond to Stanley Streets three floors deep.

I would like to suggest to old-timers that they would experience a real thrill by standing in the College building lobby from 6:15 to 6:30 any weekday evening. The thousands of students, who used to be accommodated in the various annexes, plus thousands more pour through the door from Drummond Street and make their way to classrooms, laboratories and studios in the new building.

Following the pattern of last year, it has been decided to hold another fall convocation. This year it will be on Saturday evening, November 23, in Birks Hall. Last year 72 received Bachelor degrees at the fall convocation and this year the number should be at least as large.

My greatest concern (outside of the budget which is ever present) in these days of greater numbers is to try to maintain what many Georgians will remember as the Georgian spirit. Friendliness, good will, co-operation and service, which too often are considered mere platitudinous words, must be built into the lives and characters of people in the part of their lives during which the greatest growth takes place. Furthermore, this does not happen by accident. It happens only when some leaders, whether they be in humble or in high placed positions, devote themselves primarily to this cause. One of our contemporary Canadian universities has as its motto "Ours the task eternal." To me the eternal task is the insistence on character as the primary function of the educational process.

One of the pleasures of my life is to greet Georgians of other days especially those who live some distance away. Recently, D'Arcy Quinn, B.A. (1949), B.Com. (1951), visited the College. He is, apparently, doing very well in another center, which shall be nameless, but is still a loyal Georgian who, like others, rejoiced to see the physical development of the College.

My best regards go to all Alumni. I would like to assure them again that they are valuable and important to the life of the College.

REVIEWING THE YEAR

IX/ITH THE COMING of the fall season, I would like to review what has VV taken place in the Association of Alumni during the last year.

First, let us look at the meetings that took place, as it is at these meetings that plans and the foundations for a successful Alumni are formulated. The Executive held sixteen meetings during the period from September 1956 to September 1957. During the same period, the Constitution Committee held four meetings, the Seminar Committee held three, the PostGrad Committee held ten meetings (including subcommittees), the Student Loan Fund Committee held five meetings, the Public Relations Committee held two, the Financial Committee hild four meetings and the Social Committee held seven meetings. At a glance his may seem like a lot of Committees and meetings but for an Alumni Association which has more than 3000 members we have very few committees. I would like to extend a very warm invitation to all members of the Alumni to join us in the Association either as members of the existing Committees or on new committees which they have an interest in forming, and which would be an asset to the Alumni. I sincerely believe that the Association of Alumni of Sir George Williams College is coming of age, and we need people with new ideas and skills to help it grow.

What did these Committees achieve? The Seminar Committee organized four

What did these Committees achieve? The Seminar Committee organized four most successful seminars, both in numbers attending and subject matter presented. The PostGrad Committee reviewed the whole matter of printing and advertising in our publication, and many changes are forthcoming. The Student Loan Fund Committee set up a fund to help students over some of the rough spots during their stay at Sir George. The Public Relations Committee reviewed the relationship between Public Relations and Publicity. The Financial Committee made plans for the coming Assessment of members. The Social Committee organized two receptions for the 1957 Graduates of Sir George. They also organized a tour of the New College Building with a reception afterwards at H.M.C.S. Donnacona, but the outstanding event organized by this committee was the Easter Ball held in the Mount Royal Hotel in honour of Dr. Henry Hall and Dean Robert Rae.

During the year plans were made to incorporate the Association of Alumni, and the papers are now awaiting approval at Quebec. Let us hope that the next season will be a most successful one for the Association of Alumni of Sir George Williams College Incorporated.

A YEAR OF PLENTY - WE HOPE

ITH THE commencement of another publication year of this, the Association of Alumni's official voice, we find ourselves—editorial-wise—with the problems that usually beset us come September.

The reference is made, of course, to material essential for the magazine, if only to prevent the ads from overlapping.

In all seriousness, though, it has been suggested that the Editor solicit personally individual members for articles. Somehow the undersigned feels that this should not be necessary. Graduates — especially of SGWC — have views and opinions on national and international events. It is this type of material, we feel, that the Postgrad requires and that its readers desire.

Your cooperation is sincerely requested.

One of the features which the Executive plans for this year ('57-8) is a Graduates' Directory which will include the names, occupations, addresses, etc. of each and every grad. The directory, something that has long been needed within the Association, will be sent out without charge to everyone. It is further hoped to make this an annual publication.

Your contributions, criticisms and general comments regarding the Association may be addressed to the Editor, Sorel Intermediate School, Sorel, Que.

CARLING'S

PRINCIPAL ADDRESSES KIWANIS CLUB

EARLY LAST MONTH, Dr. H. F. Hall was invited to speak to the members of the Kiwanis Club of Montreal, at the Mount Royal Hotel. Dr. Hall's address was entitled: "Are You Getting Value for your Educational Dollar?"

At the conclusion of the talk, Frank C. Galer, President of the Kiwanis Club in this City, made a presentation of $400 to Dr. Hall on behalf of the Kiwanis Vocational Guidance Committee, to provide equipment for the Student Guidance Service of Sir George. This sum will enable the College to initiate an Individual Reading Training Clinic, probably the first of its kind in Canada.

The photo on the cover of this issue was taken as the cheque was presented to the Principal by President Galer.

The following is an outline of Dr. Hall's address:—

Once more the opening of another academic year serves to focus attention on the importance of organized education throughout the land. Education has, indeed, become big business. The spectacular growth of educational institutions in number and size throughout the world is one of the phenomena of our age. This growth, in our country, is due to at least three factors:—

1. The growth of the country in general.

2. The new concepts of the importance and place of formal education.

3. The remarkable socio-biological phenomenon resulting in a sharply accelerated birth rate.

My main concern is that education should not become "depersonalized". The "new education" of Dewey and his school with all its misapplication and dangerous generalizations at least served to focus attention on the fact that education is a personal thing and that the development of people is its fundamental aim. Because of the crowding of our facilities there is danger of mass education. We shall get the value of our educational dollar only if education is adapted to individual needs.

In examining this proposition, let us look briefly at the purposes of education. In doing this let me assure you that I am perfectly aware that all education does not take place in schools. In fact, this to me is one of the fundamentals of individual education. All of the experiences of life are potentially educational experiences. The school and college, at their best, can direct, focus and concentrate the educational process until education becomes an adventure, a quest and life-long development. At its worst, the educational institution kills interest and makes education a bore, a dull routine and, in extreme cases, a frightening experience.

It is often stated (and I think generally accepted) that organized education has two broad and fundamental purposes. These are: (1) the preservation and transmission of "culture" from generation to generation, and (2) the development of people (particularly the young) of each generation. It is the development aspect of education with which most teachers and educational administrators are primarily concerned.

Basic Skills

It seems to me that this development can be regarded in three aspects from the point of view of the operation of a school or an educational system.

First, there are the basic skills of communication. These are often referred to as the three R's, and looked upon as the province of the elementary grades and the distinction between literacy and illiteracy. However, it is much more than this. Literacy and the communication skills can, and should, develop throughout life.

There is some correlation between reading and writing, but these are separate systems of habits — just as speaking and writing are.

The second purpose of the educational process is the development of vocational or contact the Branch Manager in the Burroughs Office nearest you. abilities and skills. These may be highly specialized and very simple or very generalized and complex. It is to be noted, I think, that what is or is not vocational depends on the vocation and on the point of view. To the professor of Greek, that classical language is vocational while to many it represents the extreme in useless educational frills. I used to know a salesman who studied anatomy as a hobby. I know another man who makes his living by teaching anatomy.

Most vocational training programs are well-known as such. They range from technical schools and business schools to professional training in theology, letters, medicine, engineering, social work, and so forth. (If I have left out your profession from this list, I can only tell you that I've also left out my own!)

Culture

The third and final area of development with which formal education is concerned is what may broadly be called the cultural. This is the great controversial area of educational theory and of practice. The following rhetorical questions will perhaps serve to indicate the scope of this field.

1. Should education place character as foremost of its objectives?

2. Is good citizenship an aim of education? If so, how do you teach it.

3. What is the place of culture in the sense of our heritage of literature, music and the plastic arts?

4. Finally, where does religion fit into the whole scheme of the educational process?

On the one hand, there are those who hold that we should give youth the fundamental skills and some basic vocational training and leave the difficult and controversial questions of character to the home, the church and the informal educational agencies. On the other hand, there are those who hold that making a life is primary and making a living secondary — those also who believe that the separation of religion and education does violence to both.

Individual Différences

To these questions, each must give his own answer, and actual practice will generally be a compromise. It is my sincere conviction that individuals differ and that this is a most fundamental fact to be faced by the educational system. We shall get our money's worth and more out of formal education if we can manage to keep it human and to preserve it from the deadly effects of a mass approach. One of the great dangers of our day is forced upon us by the tremendous volume. Mere numbers militate against treating each person as a human soul.

In spite of this danger, however, it is my conviction that education is our greatest and most worthwhile investment. One out of every three Canadians is under fifteen years of age. To them belongs the future of our country and the world.

EASTER BALL ACCLAIMED SUCCESS

THE FIRST annual Alumni Ball, held last April in the Sheraton-Mount Royal Hotel, has been described as "the biggest social success in the association's history."

Describing the dinner-dance was Gerry Miller, social chairman, who said the 200 couples who were in attendance would be quick to agree with him.

There is a little doubt that this first gigantic effort by the association's social committee will go down in the alumni's books as the greatest social project to date.

The dance was held in honor of Dr. Henry F. Hall, principal, and Dean Robert C. Rae. The honorary patrons were The Honorable Milton F. Gregg, VC, Federal Minister of Labor, and B. W. Roberts, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway and chairman of the college's board of governors.

The evening, 7 p.m. to 1.30 a.m., featured continuous music with a trio playing during the dinner hour and Eddie Alexander's well-known Montreal orchestra supplying the music for dancing. An excellent calypso vocal group, as an added attraction, topped off the evening's festivities.

If it's possible, Gerry Miller and his committee have even bigger things planned on next year's social program.

The second annual Alumni Ball will be held in March or April, 1958 and even the preliminary planning points to an even bigger show than this year. Eddie Alexander and his orchestra will be on hand again with even bigger and better entertainment.

We're not telling you to call the alumni office to reserve tickets, but we do ask you to keep this social event in mind. There'll be more news and announcements on this in future issues of The Postgrad. So watch for them.

Plans are also being completed for the 1958 alumni reception to honor the new graduating class. It will be held in the brand-new Queen Elizabeth Hotel. This year's reception attracted close to 1,000 grads, alumni members and friends — this popular event is getting bigger every year.

Congratulations are overdue to Gerry's social committee and graduates are invited to give their support to all their activities. It's a good chance to renew old acquaintances and make new friends.

Sir George Announces Engineering Course

S IR GEORGE is now offering to a limited number of students a two year program leading to a Certificate in Engineering, in the fields of Civil, Mechanical, Electrical, and Chemical Engineering. Holders of this Certificate may, if recommended, be admitted to the fourth year of a five year course at other engineering schools, where they may complete the work for a degree in Engineering.

Alternatively, holders of this Certificate may, if they so elect, remain at Sir George for a further year of studies, to complete the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Science.

This Program will be offered in both day and evening divisions. In the evening division two calendar years equate to one academic year, so that evening students must expect to attend for four years in order to complete the requirements for the Certificate.

Applicants to the first year of the Certificate Program must have successfully completed the first year of a B.Sc. course.

Further information may be obtained upon request from the Registrar.

ASSESSMENT DRIVE TO GET UNDERWAY

GRADUATES will soon be asked to contribute to the alumni's second annual assessment drive.

Many of the alumni are not familiar with the work of their association—a comparatively young organization, yet one which is anxious to do a good job.

It is with your support, fellow alumnus, that the association hopes to further its activities and at the same time lend a helping hand to the college.

You will be asked to donate $10 as your share in this program. You can be assured that this is money well spent.

The total received, and it is hoped to reach the $5,000 mark, will be used to cover the cost of seminars, continue the Student Loan Fund, establish a scholarship for graduates, expand the alumni's social activities and a host of other projects that are now in the planning stage. These plans cannot continue without your help.

THE GEORGIAN FILM SOCIETY

by JIM JONES, (B.A. '57)

A MERGER has been announced of the College Film Society, the High School and the Alumni Groups.

The newly-formed organization will be known as the "Georgian Film Society", on the executive committee of which the alumni and High School are represented.

The Alumni's representative for this year is Jim Jones, who can be reached at UN. 6-0296 for information pertaining to films and film showings.

For the benefits of the readers of this article who are not familiar with the efforts of the film society, perhaps this article may help to explain its mission and purpose as a film organization. The film society was organized for the purpose of bringing to its members a realistic film program based on films which have an educational value, and which are also informative. The film society has always endeavored to arrange film programs which tend to stress man's social and cultural evolutions, and the complex socio-cultural problems with which man is constantly faced.

Although the College Film Society until 1955 was small, it was nonetheless a significant organization. The smallness of the film society was due to a misunderstanding of its mission and purpose as a progressive college club. When a discussion of films, and the film society at Sir George takes place, one automatically thinks of Bill Kinal, who at present is the program chairman of the society. Bill can be classified as one of the staunchest supporters of the film society. It was Bill, oftentimes working alone who kept the group together in its darkest days. His role in keeping alive the film society, I am afraid, cannot be properly evaluted here.

Today, the film society is the largest, and if I may be presumptuous enough to add, the best organized group on the campus. Last year, the film society's program were attended by more than two thousand students and their guests. For the coming program year 1957-58 the film society is expecting a record attendance.

The Film society will issue a program pamphlet as soon as it is completed. However until the pamphlet is issued here is an idea of the film programs for the coming year.

FORMER "GEORGIAN" EDITOR JOINS NEW YORK PUBLISHING HOUSE

FRED KERNER, former editor-in-chief of The Georgian, has become senior editor of Hawthorn Books, Inc., in New York.

Mr. Kerner, B.A. '42, was active in college life in the three years he spent at Sir George. He was an executive member of the college newspaper staff from 1940 to 1942, bringing the publication to full membership in the Canadian University Press. He also was associated with "Georgiantics," the college musical revue for three years and was director in 1942. He was a member of the S.U.S. and the Students' Council.

After graduation he was an editorial writer for the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix and later went to the Montreal Gazette as a sports writer and columnist. In 1944 he joined the staff of The Canadian Press and served variously as sports and theatre columnist, news editor, foreign correspondent, legislative reporter, and acting bureau chief in New York.

For six years he was Night City Editor of The Associated Press in New York and during that time contributed as a free-lance to many magazines. He also co-authored a number of books, among them "Eat, Think and Be Slender" and "The Magic Power of Your Mind," both best sellers. This fall he is having published an anthology, "Love Is A Man's Affair," and a book on the psychological aspects of memory of which he is co-author.

As editor of Hawthorn Books, a subsidiary of Prentice-Hall Inc., which publishes expensive reference, religious, inspirational and gift books, he is in complete charge of editorial policy.

School of Retailing Holds Graduation

L AST JUNE, Sir George Williams College's School of Retailing graduated twenty-five students at a ceremony held in the College.

Presentation of Diplomas was made by Dr. Hall. Mr. Sam Steinberg, of Steinberg Super Markets, delivered the address. The Director of the School of Retailing, Miss Patricia M. Dunton, gave the following comments on the course and its activities:

We are gathered here this evening to attend the graduation of 25 young men and women from the School of Retailing, or as the college students calls us, the SOR.

This year has been a memorable one in many ways. The first thing that happened was a move into this beautiful new building from our former quarters across Drummond Street. Our classroom was large and bright, and although we periodically had trouble with the venetian blinds, and the fire engines rushing up Drummond Street, it served us well. Secondly, we were fortunate in being given a display showcase which the students could use to set up displays and from which they practiced selling techniques. Being in the same building as the college of students also afforded them an opportunity of taking part in college life and has given them a school spirit second to none. During the past year, this class has sponsored three college dances, had three candidates for Carnival Queen and most outstanding of all, the girl's basketball team were the victors in an exhibition game against the college girl's team 9-6. I mention this because I feel that these extra-curricular activities are a necessary part of education. I think, too, that by making a few mistakes the students now realize where to draw the line between work and play.

I will ask you now to bear with me while I quote a few statistics, this seems to be the only way in which we may realize the scope of learning this past year. The most popular course, as always, was Product Knowledge. We covered 87 different products from diamonds to paper and textiles to cheese. Many of the lecturers in this course are manufacturers who very often arrive with samples and pamphlets. There were close to 200 pamphlets distributed to each student this year, and I would like to offer an apology to the mothers of students who lived at home, for I am sure these important bits of paper very much hindered your housecleaning.

We took 24 field trips travelling close to 400 miles to and from plants and countless miles by foot through the factories. Our visits extended from Cowansville to Lachute, Dorval to the South Shore. The trips varied tremendously, textile mills, a fashion show, a toy showroom, a mail order house, a shopping centre and a warehouse, to name but a few. One of the trips that the students looked forward to was a chocolate factory, I think they pictured themselves eating as much as they could. But by the time they had smelled chocolate for 2½ hours, they were not quite so keen.

We had a total of 178 guest lecturers from stores, manufacturers and business concerns throughout the city. Some of the lecturers made special trips from New York and Toronto to talk to the students. The Co-operation received from these firms has been overwhelming and most encouraging. This course is a fine example of business and education working side by side.

As Effective Speaking and Salesmanship are two of our very important courses, we decided this year to include one hour a week, when each student in turn would lecture to the class on one aspect of Salesmanship. This proved to be most interesting, and it made the students realize the difficulties in presenting an interesting lecture to a group of young people. And although the Salesmanship text book was used very thoroughly as a basis for these lectures, I feel that they are to be congratulated on

Prior to the opening in September, the Selection Committee met six time for consideration of each application for admission to the school. We have been very careful in the selection of the students because we feel that if these young people are to be future executives, in any business, they must have leadership, interest and general knowledge. And so on the basis of references, testing and school leaving marks, and an extensive interview, these students graduating tonight, were chosen from 48 applicants.

We are continually striving to improve the course and to keep up with the changes in the retail field. Through the year the students have had the opportunity of reading publications from New York, Toronto, and Montreal keeping them as up-to-date as anyone in the retail business.

Although this is supposed to be a report of the year's work in the School of Retailing, it would be incomplete if I did not say a very sincere thank you to all those who have been so helpful to me and to the students. To Dr. Hall and all members of the staff who have listened so patiently to my problems and given so freely of their sound advice; to Miss McDougall, my Girl Friday who has kept me in line, and set up a new filing system, in which she can find everything, and I can find nothing: to Mrs. Marshall, Miss Clark, Mlle Bédard and Mr. Manson, our permanent instructors who have shown such a keen interest in every student, sometimes under rather difficult circumstances; and to all the stores and manufacturers, whose co-operation and interest has been so outstanding, and without whom this course would be impossible. I wish I could name all the lecturers by name, but we would be here all night, however, I would like to single out Mr. J. Bunn of the T. Eaton Co. who has brought selling and the art of selling alive to these young people.

And now, if I may, I should like to say just a few words to the graduates. During the past year, we have come to know one another rather well. You have been in rather a unique position, in that you were half student and half businessman, sometimes I was not sure which half was in the classroom and which half in the stores, but I think on the whole your adjustment to each was admirable. If I have nagged and nattered at you it was only because I was most anxious that you get the most out of your year. In the future I don't want to hear good things about your work, I want to hear the best. Remember the plus factor. Please feel free when you are passing to drop in and say "hello", let me know how you are getting along. Be kind to the students in the future classes, some of whom might be working for you.

I should like to leave with you a quotation from the pen of Aldous Huxley, "Experience is not what happens to a man, but what a man does with what happens to him". Good luck to you all and Thank you.

A recent visitor to the College was Dr. Herman Fleischacker who graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in 1947. He obtained the Ph.D. degree in Chemistry at the University of Maryland and is now living in Philadelphia where he is working in organic chemistry research. Dr. Fleischacker is visiting old scenes in Montreal accompanied by his wife. During his undergraduate days he was employed by Ayerst, McKenna & Harrison Ltd. He wishes to be remembered to former associates at the College particularly to Dr. Madras.

Fees Up In Fall

T HAS BEEN announced by the college that an increase in tuition fees will become effective in the fall term of 1957.

Dr. H. F. Hall, principal, said that the board of governors had felt obliged to make 'a modest increase' in fees for the coming year due to rising costs and particularly in view of the urgent necessity for raising salaries of faculty members both full time and part time.

It was announced that the basic tuition fee in the day division of the college would be increased from $250 to $300 per year in the three faculties of arts, science and commerce. In the evening division, the tuition fee is being raised from $45 to $50 per course for the academic year. In half courses, the fee is increased from $22.50 to $25. Laboratory and other fees are not affected by this change.

Increase Made With Reluctance

Dr. Hall said that this change was made with some reluctance as it was the aim of Sir George Williams College to provide educational opportunities for as many as possible without regard to ability to pay. However, he felt that the fees of the college in both day and evening divisions are still very reasonable.

In order to enable certain qualified students, who might not be able to afford the increased fees to continue at the college, the board of governors has increased the amount available for continuation scholarships and is continuing the policy of offering a limited number of entrance scholarships in the day division. These have a value of $125 each and are based on need as well as on scholarship.

The board has also authorized the establishment of a new loan fund of $5,000 available to students who have proved their ability to do college work and who are in need of assistance in the payment of tuition fees.

Rotman Appointed Y Program Director

ARTHUR ROTMAN, a member of the Y program staff during the past 8 years and until recently Education Director of the Snowdon Building, has been appointed Program Director for both the Davis and the Snowdon Buildings, effective at the beginning of the 1957-58 program season. Mr. Rotman will have direct responsibility for the entire program of the Davis Building, and the club, education, and social program of the Snowdon Building.

Mr. Rotman was born in Montreal and received his education here. He is a graduate of the United Talmud Torahs, holds the degree of B.A. (Sir George Williams, 1947) and Master of Social Administration from Western Reserve University at Cleveland, Ohio. He is a member of Congregation Beth El in the Town of Mount Royal. He is an accredited field work supervisor in group work at the McGill School of Social Work, and has been a special lecturer at that school and the Laquemac Summer School for Recreation.

Mr. Rotman's interest in Y work began in his childhood when he became a member of the Montreal Y, and eventually a club leader. He has grown steadily in his professional work in the Y, rising from Program Assistant to Supervisor and eventually to Education Director.

In his new post, Mr. Rotman will take over the operation of the program during a period of great change and development, which, during the next few years, will involve expansion of facilities, development of extension services, development of a country program and possibility of a country Day Camp area. The creation of the post of Pragram Director will relieve the pressure upon the Executive Director in working on these new projects.
